Dear Vikki

Hi Vikki I know that it has been a little while since I wrote you last but then again I have only had one letter from you so I don't feel bad about not writing and you should not either well I hope you get this before Xmas and I hope that things are working out for you out there I really do I hate to see you getting fucked around and I don't like to always end up saying I told you so but I really hope that you get lucky and make out good I think that you have had all the troubles you need in back you always seem to do the things you want and alot of times its the wrong thing well who am I to talk anyway look at me I was just thinking about you I always do but I said I should drop you a line after all I still care for you and I hope that you know that you always have a friend in me I don't know how you are now but I still got my thoughts on you I don't know what to tell you as there is not too much going on in my life I am still in this hell hole and I am still in a hell twenty three hours a day and I have lots and lots of time to think about things of the past and the future but I still will have to wait and see I guess I don't see no big problems even if I have to wait and wait I know that my day will come I think I will just live day by day and worry about the future when it gets here I read that letter you wrote and it was nice and I know you cared and I thank you and I will not forget all the good things we did together like the row boat or the cold home burgers remember you could laugh now so take care of love you always will Oh by the way will you still help me for a job or a place to stay if I need it as a friend or

PS SEND YOUR AREA CODE OR MY LETTERS WON'T GET TO YOU
